

Dr. Khalid Ali Al-Quradaghi
Director of Information Systems Department
Planning and Statistics Authority

- For nearly 15 years, Dr. Khalid have been involved in managing and leading pioneering projects and initiatives in the field of modern technology and digitalization locally and internationally.
- He led the advancement of knowledge systems and supervised many recent programs as a Director of Knowledge and Innovation Systems at Qatar Foundation QF Research & Development.
- He obtained the "Advanced Certificate for Executives in Management, Innovation, and Technology (ACE)," the highest executive education certificate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in USA, which is considered among the top five universities around the world.
- He led a unique project at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in USA as a Visiting Scholar and Co-Executive Director of the Science, Technology and Innovation (STI) Project, in collaboration with Qatar Foundation.
- For several years, he managed strategic national projects to advance human and technological capacities in his capacity as Director of scientific programs at Qatar National Research Fund (QNRF), member of QF.
- Dr. Khalid obtained Ph.D. degree from the University of Manchester, UK. His areas of interests and work include distinguished topics, including informatics, statistical information systems, knowledge management, e-government, digitalization, effective governance and the technology projects system.